FINANCIAL.

On Madison street there has been a better supply of exchange the last day or two owing to better sales of cotton. Rates remain steady at New York, and eastern demand par steady at New York, and eastern demand par buying, ¼ premium selling; New Orleans ¼ discount, selling at par. Gold advanced in the morning in New York to 107½, but at noon fell back to 107; brokers offered 106@ 106¼ for it. The St. Louis Republican says: "Gold has received but little attention. It has fluctuated by fractions—ascending a few points above 7 occasionally and then getting down close to 6. There is no health or strength in gold, and it ought not really to be at a premium; yet the manipulators of the call board in Wall street, New York, have pushed it where it is and kept it there, and were England to declare war against Russia indoubtedly gold would go to 10, 15 and may be 20, because consols would go down. As though the price of English securities in specie paying England ought, legiti-mately, affect the premium on gold in currency-paying America. It is easy enough to be seen that if the war in Europe becomes general, a panic in England, Germany, Austria, and perhaps France might occur, which would lead to such a speedy conversion of securities into gold as to cause a rapid rise in the price of that metal everywhere, and the mere possibility of such an occurrence undoubtedly gives gold the strength it appears to have at this time." The New York World states: "The nominal rate for sterling exchange has been reduced half a cent, to 4.87% and 4.90. The actual market is also about as much lower, with drafts worth from 4.80 to 4.80 to 4.80 The shipments of gold, so far as they were remittances, appear to have been inevitable; the making the remittances (for bonds and interst) should send the gold themselves or pay higher rates of exchange to other bankers who would be obliged, in the present scarcity of bills, to ship the coin. A better supply of commercial bills is much wanted." The Bulletin adds: "With demand bills at 4.8914, the bankers importing United States bonds prefer to ship gold; and unless exchange rules below the shipping point, specie exports may be expected to almost if not to the full extent that our bonds and securities are returned here. In this connection it is of interest to know that the Imperial Bank of Germany have advanced their discount rate to five per cent, and their rate for advances on securities to six per cent. The New York market i now by far the lowest money market with which we have relations; so that, all other things being equal, securities will naturally drift here." In the local market not a thing of interest was reported. [BY TELEGRAPH.] PARIS, May 17.—Rentes, 102f. 25c. NEW ORLEANS, May 17 .- Gold, 105 1/2@

The cotton market yesterday was bet-ter, New York advanced lac, which, with an improving tone elsewhere, put a brisker look on things. In our market there was again a fairly active demand; sales were tolerably full and would have been more so had the offerings included a larger proportion of desirable cottons; the better grades were scarce. The market closed firm at ex-isting quotations; sales included 300 bales sold the previous evening after change hours. The New York Balletin, of Tuesday, says: "On spots there was a fair line closed out on Saturday evening for export, understood to be going to Russia, but to-day the market generally was quiet. Shippers for the English market in particular were indifferent, and but few could be induced to make bids, and the home demand keeps along in the old grooves, spirners refusing to handle stock positively known wants. On contracts there has been very little spirit or excitement, and though one or two fluctuations took place they appeared to have base mainly in local manipulation. The cable fails to ring encouraging advices, and cannot be considered as much worse, and home acsitive character, leaving operators without nany points from which to take a new departure. Trading in consequence was confined mainly to skirmishing, and the result shows no solid game for either buyer or seller. The unloading process, however, appears for the time being to have been suspended."

JONAH AND THE WHALE. NEW YORK, May 17.—The package trade continues quiet in nearly all departments.

Men's wear woolens in fair demand and steady. Cotton goods moving slowly except brown sheetings, which are rather more action. Prints in light demand. Dress gingbeing thrown out on the dam at Louisville. Now, if I won't bore you, and if I do I don't care, I will come down to facts, and give you a brief history of what I know about

THE LOUISVILLE DAM. I arrived at Louisville on Saturday, April 28th, at nine o'clock in the morning, and laid there all day, taking on hay, cement, lime and coal; the canal, meanwhile, was blocked with coal barges, etc. At dark the wind rose so that I determined to stay at the wharf until daylight Sunday morning, by which time I hoped the canal would be free, and I could go on without having the coal fleet in my way. Sunday morning, April 29th, I got ready to leave at four o'clock; the morning was bright and beautiful, and as calm as the features of a three-thousand-year-old mum-my; and before backing out I walked down the landing to see, with my own eyes, that the canal was clear and the way open. All of the coal fleet had passed through during the night, and there was nothing in the track The steamer Dick Fulton No. 3 lay stern up-stream at the head of the canal, on the shore side, with apparently no steam or sign of life about her, and seemed to be tied as fast as a OLD JOHN BROWN'S LAST CRAVAT, so I backed out and started into the canal, When under full headway, and not over a the entrance to the canal, the Fulton backed square across the head of the canal and my bows without blowing a whistle or giving any warning whatever of her movements. I blew for the starboard, then blew a distress whistle to let them know they were getting me in trouble, but they neither answered nor paid any attention whatever to them or my danger. As in duty bound, I had stopped my wheels and commenced backing up to avoid a collision, which would have certainly sunk both boats. By this time, however, I was within thirty feet of the head of the wing dam, around which there is a current of, I should think, thirty miles an hour, and, aided by the swells from the wheel of the Fulton, I was being drawn AN ALARMINGLY RAPID SPEED, and in less time than it would take you to call Durff a mackerel, had passed around the head of the wing dam, and out on the main dam. Here, for three days, the Alf surged and hammered in the boiling and seething iquid volcano, seemingly beyond morta help, but with the aid, skill and valuable superhuman efforts of Captain Pink Varble, of Louisville, and Captain Dowd, of the steamer Ark, I got her off, and here I am,

I have the experience, and the chaps about Louisville have the money. I expect to leave St. Louis for Memphis on Thursday, May 24th, and hope to see your smiling "phiz" aboard the Alf Stevens on the Sunday morning thereafter. N EXT to being married to the right person there under one's own roof. There is something more than a poetical charm in the expression of a wife "We have our core being." withing to a friend, who said:

"We have our coyy house; it is thrice dear to us because it is our own. We have bought it with the savings of our earnings. Many were the sods fountains, the confectionery saloons, and the necessaries of market, we had to pass, many a time my noble husband denied himself the comfort of tobacco, the refreshing draught of beer, wore his old clothes, and even patched-up boots; and I, oh, me! made my bonnet do, wore the plainest clothes, did the plainest cooking. Saving was the order of the house, and to have a home of our own had been our united aim. Now we have it. There is no landlord troubling us with raising the rent, and exacting this or that. There is no fear harbored in our bosom that in siekness or old age we will be thrown out of house and home, and the money which otherwise would have gone to pay rent is sufficient to keep us comfortable in the winter days of life."—Exchange.
